

I'm writing a book.

Daniel Drake

October 16, 2020

The light is low. The light comes from a single lamp lit and sitting on the center of a table. The table is round and wooden. It was hand crafted, built from logs cut out of an oak tree. The person who built this table is sitting at the table. She is a short person and her fingers are tapping on a piece of paper. The paper has some symbols on it. Symbols can spell out all kinds of things. In the world, symbols are the most powerful thing that has ever been invented. The motion of the planets, the spin of electron, and our wills are all written out using symbols.